■ What They Do

Adult Basic and Secondary Education and ESL Teachers are education professionals who help adults build foundational academic skills, earn credentials, and develop English language proficiency. They work with learners who may be improving literacy and numeracy, preparing for a high school equivalency credential, or learning English for work, community life, or further education. Their role combines instruction, mentorship, and practical support for diverse adult learners.

This career is well suited for individuals who enjoy teaching, working with diverse populations, and helping adults achieve educational and personal goals.

What Do Adult Basic and ESL Teachers Do?

Adult basic and ESL teachers design and deliver instruction tailored to adult learners' needs and goals.

Common responsibilities include:

- Teaching reading, writing, math, and basic academic skills
- Providing instruction in English as a Second Language (ESL)
- Preparing learners for high school equivalency exams or workforce readiness
- Assessing student skill levels and learning progress
- Adapting lessons for varied backgrounds, abilities, and learning styles
- Using practical, real-world examples relevant to adult life
- Maintaining attendance, progress records, and assessments

Types of Adult Education Instruction

Teachers may focus on specific adult learning goals:

- Adult Basic Education (ABE): Literacy, numeracy, and foundational academic skills.
- Adult Secondary Education (ASE): High school-level coursework and equivalency preparation.
- ESL / English Language Instruction: Speaking, listening, reading, and writing in English.
- Workforce and Career Readiness: [[/B]] Skills for employment, testing, or job training.
- Civics or Community Education: [[/B]] Language and skills for civic participation.

Skills and Abilities Needed

Adult education teachers combine instructional expertise with cultural awareness and flexibility.
